

CONTENTS

Preface .....	11
Steinar Imsen Introduction .....	13
King of the Isles .....	13
King of Norway .....	17
People and country .....	17
Norway becomes a state .....	18
From the Atlantic to the Baltic Sea .....	25
Provincia Nidrosiensis .....	26
The past is a dream .....	28
The task .....	29

PART 1: THE UNIFYING STRUCTURES .....

Steinar Imsen Royal Dominion in the 'Skattlands' .....	35
Iceland .....	37
The law and the land .....	38
Hereditary monarchy .....	38
Legislative authority .....	39
Taxation .....	42
Punitive authority .....	43
Iceland-Norway: A united community of law? .....	43
How hereditary succession worked, 1280–1450 .....	45
Håkon V Magnusson .....	49
Håkon V's descendants, 1319–87 .....	51
From hereditary to elective monarchy .....	53
The fiscal aspect of dominion .....	56
Until 1319 .....	56
After 1319 .....	58
The royal monopoly on criminal justice .....	64
The Other 'Skattlands' .....	70
Rex Insularum .....	70
The king's laws .....	76
'Skattr, skyld oc skattland' .....	78
Orkney .....	80
Shetland .....	87
Jemtland .....	88
The Faeroes and Greenland .....	89

Eldbjørg Haug The Nidaros Church as a Political Actor in the Norwegian Commonwealth . . . . .	101
Introduction . . . . .	101
The foundation of the Nidaros province . . . . .	103
Sodor's inclusion in the province and the lapse of contact . . . . .	105
The ecclesiastical structure and the organization of the Church . . . . .	107
The metropolitan . . . . .	107
The visitation . . . . .	107
The proprietary church system . . . . .	107
Episcopal succession . . . . .	108
Metropolitan power in the king's insular realm, 1266–1387 . . . . .	109
The Treaty of Perth . . . . .	109
Ecclesiastical legislation and jurisdiction . . . . .	110
The Concordat of Tønsberg . . . . .	111
Election of bishops in the 'skattlands' . . . . .	112
Reactions to the Concordat of Tønsberg . . . . .	114
The Agreement of Tautra . . . . .	117
The Settlement of Avaldsnes 1297 . . . . .	118
Monasteries, but no chapters . . . . .	119
The local church system . . . . .	120
Weakening metropolitan authority . . . . .	121
An exception of papal centralization . . . . .	122
The Union of Kalmar 1388 – c. 1430 . . . . .	123
The Faeroes . . . . .	124
Orkney . . . . .	125
The splitting of Sodor and the final loss of Norse authority . . . . .	127
Bishops of Garðar as suffragans in different bishoprics . . . . .	128
Skálholt . . . . .	129
Hólar . . . . .	131
The Church policy of Queen Margrete's house . . . . .	131
Restoration of metropolitan authority, 1430–58 . . . . .	132
Jens Gerekessen and the English bishops in Iceland . . . . .	133
Aslak Bolt and the Council of Basle . . . . .	133
Some concluding remarks . . . . .	134

6

PART 2: THE 'SKATTLANDS' . . . . . 141

Barbara E. Crawford The Northern Half of the Northern Earldoms' Lordship: A Comparison of Orkney and Shetland . . . . .	143
The Two Archipelagoes: Orkney and Shetland . . . . .	143
Political structures, earldom and bishopric . . . . .	144
Earldom estates . . . . .	146
Material remains . . . . .	146
Ecclesiastical structures . . . . .	149
The effects of 1195 on Shetland . . . . .	153
Orkney . . . . .	155
Sinclair rule . . . . .	155
Kirkwall . . . . .	156
Communal identity . . . . .	157
Ian Peter Grohse Defending Country and Realm: Military Features and the Norse-Scottish Frontier . . . . .	163
Background . . . . .	163
Rights and obligations . . . . .	164

Violence and military conflict . . . . .	170
Conclusion: Strengths and limitations . . . . .	175

Jón Viðar Sigurðsson The Making of a 'Skattland': Iceland 1247–1450 . . . . . 181

The process: becoming a 'skattland', transformation and disintegration . . . . .	181
1247–1262/64: Becoming a 'skattland' . . . . .	182
1262/64–1319: Transformation . . . . .	187
1319–1450: Disintegration . . . . .	194
The implementation of a monarchic state . . . . .	196
' Valdsmenn ' and ' sýslumenn ' . . . . .	196
' Sóknarar ', ' réttarar ' and ' lénsmenn ' . . . . .	198
' Hreppstiórar ' . . . . .	200
The assembly organization . . . . .	202
Alþingi . . . . .	202
Local assemblies . . . . .	207
' Hirð ' and ' hirðstjóri ' . . . . .	209
The administrative centres . . . . .	213
Royal resources . . . . .	215
Conclusion . . . . .	217

Lena Rohrbach Construction, Organization, Stabilization: Administrative Literacy

in the Realm of Norway, the Case of Iceland . . . . . 227

Introduction . . . . .	227
Administrative Literacy in Iceland in the Free State Period . . . . .	228
Icelandic laws after the submission to the Norwegian crown . . . . .	231
' Hafde hann vt morg kongs bref ': Communication across the sea, 1300–1400 . . . . .	232
The written word and the organization of Icelandic society in the late Middle Ages . . . . .	237
Making, using and keeping: The agents of administrative literacy in medieval Iceland . . . . .	239
Haukr Erlendsson – the first secular administrative scribe of Iceland? . . . . .	240
Einnarr Hafliðason – 'officialis', scribe and author . . . . .	241
A network of Icelandic literacy and craftwork at the end of the fourteenth century . . . . .	242
Jón Egilsson – the first archivist of Iceland . . . . .	244
Other agents of administrative literacy: 'hirðstjórar', 'officiales', priests . . . . .	244
Textual archives: Icelandic legal manuscripts 1300–1450 . . . . .	246
Conclusions: Pragmatic and political dimensions of administrative literacy in late-medieval Iceland . . . . .	256

Helgi Þorláksson Aristocrats Between Kings and Tax-paying Farmers:

Iceland c.1280 to c.1450. Political Culture, the Political Actors and the Evidence of Sagas . . . . . 265

Introduction . . . . .	265
' Þingvald ' . . . . .	265
Political culture . . . . .	266
Literary works as sources . . . . .	267
The Old covenant or Gamli [1302], and letters of conditions for acclamations . . . . .	267
The basis of power . . . . .	270
' Sóknarmenn ' . . . . .	270
' Sýslumenn ' and ' herrar ' . . . . .	271
' New men ' and Norwegians . . . . .	273
' Loðmenn ' . . . . .	274
Reaction to troublesome royal appointments . . . . .	274
The long period of Guðmundr Sigurðsson . . . . .	274
Two royalists . . . . .	275
Ormr Snorrason and Skálholtsamþykkt . . . . .	276
' Fornaldarsögur ' and ' riddarsögur ' as historical sources . . . . .	277
Late-thirteenth and fourteenth century sagas on ideology, political tendencies and matters of debate . . . . .	277
Old families, new families and solidarity? . . . . .	278

Kings and farmers in the Legendary sagas: The position of aristocrats .....	279
Indigenous 'riddarsögur' and their ideology .....	280
Ethos .....	280
Kings, aristocrats and farmers in indigenous 'riddarasögur' .....	280
Ideology .....	281
Composing 'riddarsögur' and their reception .....	282
The making of books under the auspices of secular magnates .....	284
Four fourteenth-century compilations and their ideology .....	285
General remarks .....	285
Hauksbók .....	285
Sturlungasaga: two redactions, different ideologies .....	286
The Flateyjarbók and royalism .....	286
Jón versus Ormr .....	288
Ormsbók and the Norwegian ruling class .....	288
The fifteenth century, secular chiefs and literature .....	292
Introduction .....	292
Secular chiefs and the basis of power .....	293
A new ideology reflected in the sagas? .....	295
Þorleifr Björnsson and 'regimen politicum' .....	297
Does AM 343a 4to throw light on the political situation? .....	298
Summary .....	299

Randi Bjørshol Wærdahl The Icelandic Elite's Troublesome Way Through the Labyrinth of Power .....	305
Office, rank and government .....	305
The transformation of the Icelandic elite .....	308
Office and rank, c. 1270–1319 .....	309
Access to court .....	311
Reconstruction and transformation: Office and rank, c. 1320–1450 .....	313
Access and connections to court and central officials in the late Middle Ages .....	317
Unifying elements in the government of the Norwegian king's realm .....	318

PART 3: SCANDINAVIAN BORDERLANDS AND FRONTIERS .....

Magne Njåstad 'My Eastern Realm': The King of Norway and the Border Province Jemtland ...	325
Background .....	325
Natural limitations: Limits to growth .....	325
Economy .....	325
Integration in the twelfth century: What the sagas say .....	325
The borders: Fixed borders by the late-thirteenth century .....	326
The seals .....	327
Integration: The Church .....	328
The king's tools .....	328
His officials .....	328
The role of local elites .....	329
Royal income .....	331
'Sunnamale' and the Ragundaskogen letters .....	331
The ermine tax .....	331
Money and fur .....	332
Chronology, fixture and size of taxes .....	333
The role of the king's officials .....	333
Other taxes and levies .....	334

The legal community .....	335
Supplications and communication .....	336
The 'lögmaðr', the 'lögþingi' and the Jamtemót. .....	337
The local 'þing' .....	339
Military obligations .....	339
The Church: Playing the authorities off against each other .....	340
The parochial structure: Establishment and development .....	340
Resources. .....	341
Attempts to augment the incomes .....	342
The Church holding royal power. .....	342
The authority of the senior rector .....	343
Conclusion: Legitimacy through passivity .....	344

Lars Ivar Hansen The Successive Integration of Hålogaland and Finnmark

Into the Realm of the King of Norway .....	347
Introduction .....	347
Secular administration, jurisdiction and legislation .....	348
The development of secular administrative units and judicial circuits. .....	348
Hålogaland as a separate law province .....	351
The 'løgmennt' and their locations. .....	353
Which law was applied to Hålogaland? .....	355
Defence organization .....	357
The functions of the 'multi-room houses' .....	359
Taxation .....	361
Introduction of a new conceptualization of property and redefining resource control .....	363
Conclusion .....	366

Steinar Imsen Conclusions

The political system .....	371
The great medieval Scandinavian realms: a comparison .....	375
Chronology and geography. .....	375
The political character .....	378
The new 'Norgesvelde', a political project .....	383
What kind of polity was the 'Norgesveldet'? .....	383

Steinar Imsen Sammenfatning

Veien mot vest .....	387
Den skandinaviske siden .....	389
Det politiske skattlandssystemet .....	391
Middelalderens nordiske storriker, en sammenligning .....	393
Magnus lagabøtes skattlandsrike .....	395
Hva slags samfunnsdannelse var Norgesveldet? .....	395

Bibliography .....	399
Glossary .....	421
Index .....	425
Authors .....	437